There's no stopping the beautiful memories you will capture in Midcoast Maine. Whether it's our history, beautiful sunrises and sunsets over the sea, adventures on water and land, thousands of miles of rocky coastline, lighthouses, charming villages, freshly caught seafood, brilliant foliage, the mountains or winter adventures, we welcome you to the area. Take time to breathe in the fresh air, while creating joyful memories.

Our History

In the 1620's, a number of English settlements were established along the coast of Maine, but most failed. As Maine entered the 18th century, only a half dozen European settlements had survived. Loyalist and Patriot forces contended for Maine's territory during the American Revolution. During the War of 1812, the largely-undefended eastern region of Maine was occupied by British forces, but returned to the United States following failed British offensives on the northern border, mid-Atlantic and south which produced a peace treaty that was to include dedicated land on the Michigan peninsula for Native American people.

The Damariscotta-Newcastle region has a rich history that includes all of the chapters you'd expect – boatbuilding, military history and a maritime culture that reads like a novel. The mid coast's Twin Villages of Damariscotta/Damariscotta Mills and Newcastle are uniquely positioned along the banks of the Damariscotta River, which once hosted a variety of boatbuilding operations beginning in the mid 1700's. As King George of England reserved the great tall white pines of Maine for the Royal Navy's ship masts, an industry began, which included boatbuilding, sawmills, lumberyards, blacksmith, and rigging shops. Schooners, brigs and sailing ships were built for New England merchants and were widely acclaimed for their speed and strength. The area produced more vessels than any other state in the nation at that time, and those vessels were sailed around the world.

History buffs will feel right at home in the area, and have a number of sites to explore that reach back hundreds of years. Some notable sights include the Colonial Pemaquid Historic site, which consists of seventeenth-century Fort William Henry and eighteen-century Fort Frederick. Fort William Henry was the largest of its kind in New England when originally built in 1692 by the colony of Massachusetts. The original structure was destroyed in 1696 by New France in the Siege of Pemaquid, but was reconstructed in 1908. The Friends of Colonial Pemaquid share many historical re-enactments from musket demonstrations, pirate strikes to musical entertainment from Maine St. Andrews Pipes and Drums at the historic site. Visit Whaleback, an 11-acre property in Damariscotta owned by the Maine Bureau of Parks and Lands and operated cooperatively with Coastal Rivers. The site once contained a massive oyster shell heap or midden formed over a period of more than 1,000 years by Native Americans. The shells were processed for chicken feed in the late 1800's, leaving behind just a fraction of the original mounds. Interpretive storyboards relate the history of the middens, their accumulation and destruction, and also share stories of the Upper Damariscotta River.

Visit Castle Tucker in Wiscasset, an historic, ornate mansion with tours, offering insight into the life of its 19th-century owner, a sea captain. Other sites to see include Fort Edgecomb Historic site in Edgecomb, the Thompson Ice House in South Bristol, and the Maine Maritime Museum in Bath.

FOUR SEASONS TO LOVE

From adventures in nature, oysters, and pumpkins to holiday lights and ice harvest, each season brings a new slate of offerings for both locals and visitors to the Damariscotta Region. In addition to our Calendar of Events (page 43) with the seasonal schedule of happenings in the area, be sure to look into some of these off-season celebrations that will draw you into the beauty of our region.

SPRING

Spring is an exciting time in Maine as the days stay lighter a bit longer and everything begins to show signs of rebirth. Lilacs, forsythia and apple trees come into bloom, and the common loon, the beautiful waterbird with the haunting call, returns to the lakes and ponds to nest along the shore. Sea turtles commune on logs to catch the warm rays of the sun, and osprey can be seen returning to their large stick nests built on top of pilings to incubate their eggs.

Summer in Maine is like a smorgasbord – there are so many things to do that you might not know where to start. From kayaking, river cruises, whale watching, camping, hiking, birding, swimming in the lakes, going to the beach, visiting a lighthouse, enjoying a round of golf at Wawenock Golf Club in Walpole, to enjoying one of Maine's many islands, the options are endless. For a unique Maine experience, hop aboard the Bennie Alice at Pier 6 in Boothbay Harbor and enjoy a narrated scenic cruise while you take in Maine's breathtaking coastline. FALL

As the weather begins to cool down, fall arrives bringing the smells of burning wood, sounds of crunching leaves, tastes of crisp apples and sweet cider, and brilliant colors of yellows, reds and oranges of fall foliage.

In October on Columbus Day weekend, 70 ginormous decorated gourds

WINTER

As the days become shorter and temperatures drop, Maine in winter becomes a special place, especially enjoyed by locals. What's not to love about curling up in front of a warm fire, enjoying a cup of hot cocoa, or venturing outside to enjoy the great outdoors. Maine has more than a dozen ski areas, 14,000 miles of groomed trails for snowmobiling, preserves for snowshoeing and lakes and ponds for ice fishing. The free event attracts crowds every February to participate or watch as a crew of volunteers cut large blocks of ice from Thompson Pond using antique tools. The ice harvested during the event is later used to make ice cream for the Thompson Ice House Preservation Corp's annual ice cream social in July.

The Damariscotta River in midcoast Maine is quickly earning the reputation as the “Napa Valley of Oysters.”

Thousands of years ago, shell heaps made up mostly of oyster shells lined the banks of the Damariscotta River (old Abenaki for “river of many fishes”) deposited there by Native Americans.

These oyster shell heaps tell a story about how the aboriginal people feasted on this delicacy.

The European settlers in the 1700s built mills, dams and shipyards, which led to erosion along the banks of the river and waste, which eventually led to the disappearance of the oyster.

Today, the 19-mile long tidal river offers undeniable beauty in addition to its edible bounty, providing a continual pulse within the area. More than 80 percent of Maine oysters are farmed on the river, which boasts the perfect climate for harvesting oysters. The waters are cleaner and warmer with the right level of salinity and a fresh water mix. Commercial oyster growing and the prolific spawning have brought back the wild American oyster to perfection.

You too can become a connoisseur of oysters, which are offered at most restaurants in the region. For a unique experience, take a sunset river cruise up the Damariscotta River where you will enjoy oysters as you cruise past oyster farms, witness seals lounging on boulders, and catch the majestic site of an eagle soaring overhead. If a river cruise isn't your thing, take a drive to Scully's Oyster & Lobster Market where you can grab several varieties of local oysters, clams, lobsters, shucking tools, gifts, and new this year - sauces and frozen prepared foods!

Come find out what makes oysters from the Damariscotta River so special!

Maine has more than 65 lighthouses, which have become icons of coastal Maine, luring tens of thousands of visitors to the state each year. The midcoast area alone has 21 lighthouses adorning its coastline. Today, most lighthouses serve an aesthetic purpose versus a practical one, however, the one thing that bridges history are the stories of shipwrecks, survival, and secrets hidden inside each one.

The Pemaquid Point Lighthouse, commissioned by John Quincy Adams in 1827, has the Fisherman's Museum on the first floor in the Keeper's House. It has its own piece of history at the end of the peninsula. Located on the west side of the entrance to Muscongus Bay, its pyramidal tower stands 79 feet above sea level with a light that is visible for 14 nautical miles. Built in 1835 and automated in 1934, the Lighthouse received its first fourth-order Fresnel lens in 1956. The lighthouse was the first in Maine to be automated, rather than being hosted by a keeper in 1934. Visitor's can climb the winding stairwell to the top of the historic Point Lighthouse.

Each year the United States Coast Guard, the Maine Office of Tourism and the American Lighthouse Foundation attract between 15,000 to 18,000 visitors annually, offering the general public a unique opportunity to climb and learn about more than two dozen historic Maine lights. The 2022 Maine Open Lighthouse Day is September 10, 2022 from 9:00 a.m. - 3:00 p.m. The lighthouses listed below can be easily visited from the midcoast area. Check out the website for a complete listing of lighthouses that are a part of the 2022 Open Lighthouse day at www.lighthousefoundation.org.

Help Us Build the Pathway to the Future

Let's first take a leap back in time 87 years to the summer of 1935. On a small grassy parcel of land left over from the rerouting of Route One, a small brick building was constructed at the intersection today known as Main and Vine streets, thanks to visionary Grevis Melville. The building, which was called The Information Bureau, would quickly serve as a major hub for visitors to the region.

The Information Bureau was jointly staffed by the Board of Trade and Information Bureau as the two groups worked closely together the first few years. The Information Bureau had success early on and in 1939, it was praised by several dignitaries, including Maine's Governor, U.S. Undersecretary of Agriculture and Vice President of National Fire Insurance Company. The visitors stopped to get information they needed to make their stay more enjoyable and in its 50th year in July of 1985, the Information Bureau welcomed its 1,000,000th visitor to the region.

To lay the foundation for the two organizations joining forces in 2020, on November 13, 1933, the Damariscotta-Newcastle Board of Trade was formed at Lincoln County Motors by 27 Twin Villages businessmen (the previous Board of Trade ceased operation in the 1920's). Jumping ahead 53 years to May 15, 1986, the Board of Trade changed its name to the Damariscotta Region Chamber of Commerce, where it supported more than 200 businesses in the community.

Together, the Information Bureau and the Damariscotta Region Chamber of Commerce have a combined 173 years of service. And once again, these two organizations are joining forces to ensure the survival of the historic Information Bureau and provide a permanent home to the Chamber. Not only will the restoration and revitalization of this building become a hub for visitors to the region, but also serve the community in ways never imagined.

Each year, our region welcomes people from all over the world who come for a visit. Some decide to make Mid-coast Maine their home after learning all this area has to offer. After all, the Damariscotta Region is a wonderful place to work, live, raise a family, relax, and enjoy the captivating nature all around us. But for everyone who comes to town for a day, a week, or longer, there is no visible, accessible place for them to get the information they need quickly. This will change with the restored Damariscotta Region Chamber and Information Bureau offering up-to-date and user-friendly assistance at the perfect location of Main and Vine streets in Damariscotta. This new gathering spot will restore Damariscotta Region history by bringing this building back to life and service.

The restored and expanded building, scheduled for completion at the start of the 2023 summer season, will be a one-stop location providing visitors a way to quickly find everything they need at the touch of a finger for eating, staying and playing in our beautiful region, a place to enjoy lunch on an outdoor granite bench or park bicycles before strolling into town to shop.

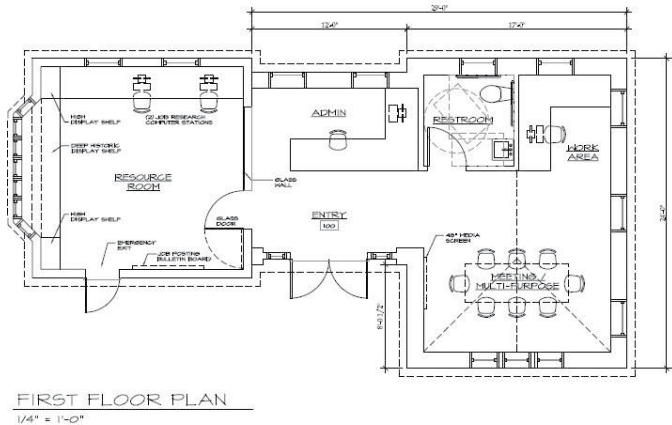

Both visitors and members of the community will appreciate and take pride in the history of our area which will come alive on the history wall that is designed as part of the interior design. The wall will share centuries worth of rich stories about this region and the people who have lived here.

Members of our community will have a center for small community meetings, a place to take online classes, find job openings or internships for our youth looking to experience work opportunities in the community.

We invite you to join us on this exciting journey and become a part of history by having your name engraved on our donor wall or on a brick that will become a part of our outdoor pathway. Imagine what this building will become for you, visitors to the region, and for our community.

For more information on how to contribute, visit our website at www.damariscottaregion.com or call 207-563-8340.
